

A scene from Desperate housewives, season 6 - 2009

Yesterday, there was a big neighbours' party in the street where Eva had been living for a long time. All her friends were there and mainly her 4 best friends who were very important to her. Every Thursday, they had a poker game and they talked. So, they were at that party with their children and their husbands. People were having fun, They were laughing together and the sun was shining when she heard a plane approach. It was a small plane but it didn't fly high in the sky. Suddenly some noise came out of it. The plan fell and crashed on a small house : her daughter was in there !

